Safeguarding Trend

You may be aware of a trend, which appears to have started in London, whereby local schools have been divided into Red or Blue 'teams'- with the intention to organise a fight between these schools in the local community. This is being shared on social media.

Over the weekend the school was contacted by Thames Valley Police to let us know that this trend had spread to Milton Keynes and Aylesbury. At this time we have no reports of active involvement from any members of our school community and are fully aware that this may mainly concern secondary schools. However, could all parents please take the time today to check their child's social media (including WhatsApp) for groups the children may have been added to.

For your reassurance, the PCSOs will be present around all schools in Aylesbury for the next two days at home time.

Yours sincerely

Elmhurst School
